

WATER COOLER

WISDOM

RULE #3

Attempt to create the most fun workplace in the history of the world.

Most people don't believe that fun and work can coexist. The key to joy at work is the personal freedom to take actions and make decisions using individual skills and talents. A special workplace has many ingredients. The feeling that you are part of a team, a sense of community, the knowledge that what you do has real purpose—all these things help make work fun. But by far the most important factor is whether people are able to use their individual talents and skills to do something useful, significant, and worthwhile. A fun workplace is one that allows people to work in an environment that is most consistent with human nature. Failure and mistakes are all part of what makes work fun. Even stress contributes to fun, as long as a person has a certain amount of control over the outcome. When all of these factors come into play at the same time, we feel something approaching pure joy. Discover the Joy at Work Revolution:

www.DennisBakke.com

WATCH OUT FOR RULE #2 – COMING NEXT MONTH

JOY AT WORK